Trustee's status still hangs in air

By Wes Smith
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

As an airline pilot, William Norwood spends a lot of time above ground level. But as an appointee to the SIU Board of Trustees, Norwood has been up in the air for two months.

Norwood, a former SIU quarterback, was appointed July 12 to the board by Gov. Dan Walker. The appointment went to the legislature for approval but the Senate recessed before acting.

Is Norwood a legitimate member of the board?

The governor says yes. The University can't decide.

Louis Vitullo, assistant to the governor for boards and commissions, said Tuesday that Gov. Walker views Norwood as an interim appointee to the board and feels Norwood has "full power" to vote and act as a board member.

However, Ivan Elliott Jr., chairman of the SIU Board of Trustees, said Tuesday the board's legal counsel C. Richard Gruney, had advised him that Norwood was not eligible to vote.

Elliott said he would reach a decision sometime before the Thursday board meeting, but it would be subject to the approval of the board.

Vitullo said Norwood will be considered a board member unless the legislature rejects his appointment when it reconvenes Nov. 7.

"This is not the first time this question has arisen, and this view is standard procedure," Vitullo said. "The governor's stand is based on solid grounds of precedent and debate on this type thing at the constitutional convention."

Vitullo said any time the legislature recesses before ruling on an appointment it is considered an interim appointment.

"If the legislature approves when it reconvenes, everything is fine. If not, he is no longer a member, but everything he did during the interim is legitimate," Vitullo stated.

Vitullo said he had conveyed this stance several times to the University.

"I have written two letters and told this to Mr. James Brown, chief of the board over the phone. It looks like I'll write a third letter tonight."

Elliott said Tuesday that he had been in contact with Vitullo but had not been informed of this view.

Elliott said he would wait to hear Vitullo's views and also to study a related ruling handed down by Atty. Gen. William Scott before making a decision.

Prisoner tuition, women's gym will head SIU Board agenda

Items ranging from the reaffirmation of tuition charges for inmates of Illinois prisons to naming the women's gymnasium will be among the topics for consideration at the SIU Board of Trustees meeting Thursday.

The board will meet in open session at 11 a.m. in Student Center Ballroom B, following a closed executive session scheduled to start at 9 a.m. in the Student Center Vermillion Room.

Since June, 1961, prisoners taking college courses for credit offered by the Division of Continuing Education had been charged 25 per cent the normal tuition rate.

But in switching to the new semester system, the board passed a resolution April 12 ruling that tuition rates would apply to all courses of instruction offered for regular academic credit, whether such instruction be offered on the campus or at some other site.

Charles Helwig, coordinator of prison programs in the Division of Continuing Education, said this latest rate assessment was an apparent oversight by the board in the transition from a quarter to a semester system.

Helwig said the proposal for Thursday's board meeting was offered by Division of Continuing Education Director Richard W. Bradley as soon as the oversight was caught.

Processing of inmates' fees is being held up until the matter is resolved, Helwig said. "To date, it has not caused any problems, he said.

It is expected that the board will revert to the old policy of charging prisoners 25 per cent of the regular rate.

An ad hoc subcommittee of the University Senate has submitted a report recommending a 10-point policy for naming buildings on campus, and this amended report will be discussed before the trustees approve a resolution naming the women's gymnasium.

Health Service to handle all cases

SIU Minor Care Clinic shuts down

By Dave Wiczorek
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

SIU's Minor Care Clinic (MCC) has been abolished indefinitely and an intercampus transportation system is being proposed to aid persons in getting to the Health Service.

Until spring, the MCC was located in a house on East Stoker Street. The Human Sexuality Service was housed in the same building. However, construction of the recreational facilities began and the buildings in the area were torn down.

The MCC was serving as an extension to the Health Service. According to Mary Alexander, head nurse at the clinic, students on the east side of campus were complaining it was too far to go to the Health Service located in small group housing.

The purpose of the clinic was to treat minor injuries—cuts, insect bites, scrapes, bruises, strains and sprains, and minor illnesses—colds, sore throats and fevers as well as administering flu shots, tuberculosis tests and tetanus shots.

According to Alexander, the clinic was handling about 25 to 30 students daily in early 1973 and about 600 students per month. She said she would have liked to have seen more students taking advantage of the clinic.

"Sam McVay, Health Service director, said another location for the clinic is being sought, but a new site has not been found.

Instead, McVay said he hopes an intercampus transportation system can be devised.

"There is current action to start such a system," McVay said. "The Student Health Advisory Commission is pushing the administration to provide a system. An intercampus transportation system would not only aid students in getting to the Health Service but would also help them get to other activities on campus."

McVay said it is an accessibility problem students are dealing with and the transportation system could solve that problem.

Publicity seemed to be another problem, Alexander related. She said not enough students were aware of the facilities available. She added that if the building had not been taken away from them the Health Service would have run the clinic this year.

Until the transportation system becomes a reality or another clinic can be set up, students will have to go to the Health Service for their needs. McVay said hours have been extended to 6 p.m. to accommodate all the students who come to the Health Service.

Reporter finds SIU police easygoing

Editor's note: Daily Egyptian reporter Scott Burnside spent an evening on patrol with two SIU policemen. The following is his account:

By Scott Burnside
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

"Sir, you're going to have to get out of the water!"

Patrolman John A. Hudson's voice, aided by a portable loudspeaker system on the roof of his patrol car, shot over the Lake-on-the-Campus with vibrant authority.

As the wading students clambered out of the water I was wondering if somebody would soon roar at me, "Sir, you're going to have to get out of that patrol car."

Any student can

SIU police have a policy of letting students ride with the patrol cars to observe how they accomplish their duties, if there aren't too many riders on one shift.

Taking them at their word, I spent most of Friday evening with campus policemen, both in the automobile and on foot.

An evening check of Lake-on-the-Campus' parking area revealed five cars, though the beach was closed. The result was the before-mention scene.

After Hudson graduated from Police Training School, he was involved in what he called the "Big Shoot of Nov. 12th," in 1970 in which two SIU policemen and one Carbondale policeman were wounded.

Dragging motorcyclists

After answering a radio call about "dragging motorcyclists," Hudson stepped on the patrol car's accelerator. Arriving at an intersection near the Communications Building, Hudson noticed two cyclists.

"It's hard to catch them, if those are the ones involved, because they would probably head down the bicycle paths," commented Hudson, an ex-military policeman.

Driving around the quiet campus with an early evening fog rolling in, Hudson noticed a late-model Mercury sitting apart from remainder of the cars in a parking lot. Checking the license plate with the LEADS computer in the radio-dispatch room, Hudson found out it wasn't listed on the stolen cars list in a fast 60 seconds.

By this time, both the night and fog were limiting visibility so Hudson stopped three bicycle riders who didn't have visible front lights. One was the sister of Carbondale policeman and all were world-wise in the art of dealing with policemen.

"Give me a warning, man," suggested one of pre-teenage trio.

As the discussion progressed, one of them grew more indignant. "Man, escaped convicts are running through here, speeders coming through all the time, why do you want to bother me."

Hudson told the children to walk the bikes, and they walked away laughing about the incident.

Reporter and policeman walk

Pearce said he had caught some students smoking marijuana in the woods near Faner Hall before I joined him. "I couldn't hardly see these guys, but the light of their match gave them away."

Because the amount of "grass" was small, no arrests were made, Pearce said, but the students would probably have to meet with school authorities because an incident report was written.

According to Pearce, working foot patrols involves more public relations type work than anything. Everywhere he went, Pearce opened doors for students, greeted people and chatted with dormitory workers.

One coed working behind the desk at Mae Smith said she would like to see more foot patrols. She said women were afraid to walk the campus at night.

Surprise beer drinkers

While walking into another dormitory, we surprised two male students leaving with open beer cans. One of them hid the can behind his leg, but Pearce noticed it. He looked at them for a second and asked them to stop. They pretended not to hear, so Pearce walked after them, telling them again to stop.

Two students broke into a run and Pearce gave chase for about five yards and instinctively reached for his gun when they wouldn't halt. He never took it out of the holster.

When one of the runners fell down and stumbled getting up, Pearce laughed and said that seemed to be enough punishment.

Five minutes later, we met the students again and Pearce shouted, "What is worth it fellows?" but took no further action as they walked into the woods.

The only hint of possible violence came later in the evening when police responded to a domestic disturbance, which resulted from a noise complaint in family housing.

No action was taken since the complainant didn't want to press charges.

Before leaving the police and their business, I noticed the only sign of blood during the evening. A student who had smashed his finger in a car door came into the station seeking assistance. He was taken to the hospital.

EPA tests physical plant smoke for compliance with regulations

By Kenneth Temkin
Student Writer

Tests to determine the effectiveness of pollution control devices for SIU's steam plant will near completion Wednesday, according to engineers of the Aqua Systems Corp. of Chicago.

The engineers began the tests at 5 a.m. Tuesday, and by mid afternoon had collected 48 samples of gas from the steam plant chimney.

The tests will continue Thursday, if necessary, to obtain enough samples to determine if SIU will be able to meet requirements of the new Clean Air Standards Act scheduled to go into effect May 30, 1975.

SIU requisitioned the tests, at a cost of $19,270, through Consoer-Townsend & Associates of Chicago, the original designers of the steam production system and consultants to SIU's Pollution Control Program.

The firm sub-contracted the actual testing to the Aqua Systems Corp.

The results of the tests are scheduled to be turned over to Consoer-Townsend & Associates within 30 days and will be evaluated for suggestions and recommendations for improvement of pollution control devices at the plant.

Tom Engram, SIU electrical engineer in planning and development, said he does not expect the physical plant to meet the clean air standards and that SIU will be using the results and recommendations of the test to obtain a variance in the implementation of the standards.

Engram said the only way SIU can bring it's physical plant within the new pollution standards is to build a separate pollution control plant which "would take two to two and a half years to build." He estimated the cost of such a plant at about $7 million.

Norman Gordon, a chemical engineer for Consoer-Townsend, was on hand Tuesday morning to supervise the testing procedures. He said he was favorably impressed by the facilities SIU has for steam production and pollution control.

Student Senate to hear ideas on credit, housing

Sen. Richard "Josh" Bragg will explain two resolutions concerning academic credit for student government officials and campus housing regulations at the Student Senate meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in Ballroom B of the Student Center.

At the last senate meeting, Bragg introduced the two resolutions, but they were tabled so senators could investigate the proposals.

In one resolution, Bragg recommends that the dean of general studies "initiate procedures" allowing up to four hours credit for senators serving in the senate.

Bragg's second resolution recommends the abolition of housing regulations.

Current regulations require freshmen under 21 to live in on-campus housing. Sophomores, under twenty-one must live in University approved housing.

For retirement plan Faculty backs state funding

Jerie Jayne

Faculty Programmatic and Personnel
Review and for Budget Advisement.

A resolution supporting full state funding for University faculty retirement benefits was unanimously approved at a Faculty Senate meeting Tuesday.

Herbert S. Donow, associate professor of English and a member of the senate, said Gov. Dan Walker recently vetoed a bill to gradually increase state funds for university faculty retirement.

Donow said he hopes the resolution will encourage appeals to state legislators to override Walker's veto.

John E. King, higher education professor and chairman of the Senate's ad hoc Committee to Aid Terminated Faculty, said the committee's work was completed.

He gave the following recommendations to the senate for future reference:

—The senate should continue to support the 28 terminated tenured faculty, and plan for a channel of grievances.

—The senate should remain in close contact with committees established by interim President Hiram H. Lesar for —The senate should make recommendations to the president regarding faculty tenure in order to achieve a steady staffing situation.

—The senate should request the president and Board of Trustees to adopt and publicize a statement concerning faculty tenure.

Roy Weshinsky, chairman of the Judicial Review Board, gave a report on the procedure for faculty members to air grievances with the board.

The board is made up of 15 elected faculty senate members and five administrative staff personnel.

Weshinsky, an assistant professor of English, suggested faculty members prepare a detailed presentation before confronting the board. He said the person presenting the grievance and the respondent will be heard by the Judicial Review Board.

"The reason for the board is to provide members of faculty and administration staff with a means of bringing grievances out in the open," he said.

Ford may pardon entire Watergate crew

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Ford is studying the possibility of pardoning all those convicted or accused of Watergate-related crimes, a spokesman said Tuesday.

The surprise disclosure, heightening the controversy touched off by Ford's pardon for Richard Nixon, was made by acting press secretary John Hushen, who said he spoke with Ford's express authorization.

"The question of pardons is under study," he said, adding that the review embraces all 48 individuals who have been accused of crimes associated with the Watergate label. Of the 48, 39 have pleaded guilty or been convicted by juries.

"I can give you no further guidance," Hushen said.

White House counsel Philip Buchen later told reporters he understood Ford was personally conducting the pardon study at this point but that he, Buchen, expected to be involved later.

Buchen said he believed Ford first disclosed his interest in possible broad scale Watergate pardons at a morning meeting with Hushen and counselor Robert T. Hartmann.

Hushen was asked by a newsman if he understood the likely impact of his Ford-authorized statement on a nation already divided over the merits of the Nixon pardon.

"I think those factors have been taken into account," he said, adding that the launching of a study did not mean pardons actually would be granted.

Reaction from powerful congressional Democrats was swift and critical. Senate Democratic whip Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia said new pardons "would complete the cover-up of the cover-up." House Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., said they "would be viewed as an abuse of presidential power."

Sen. James L. Buckley, R-N.Y., said, however, "I certainly think it's appropriate for these cases to be reviewed. But I haven't thought it through."

Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., Senate Watergate committee chairman, said it would be a mockery to pardon "these men who undertook to steal from the American people their right to a free election."

At the special Watergate prosecutor's office, spokesman James Doyle said, "I don't think I'm surprised," that Ford would consider the pardons.

Attorneys for six defendants, in the Watergate cover-up trial conferred all morning on a joint strategy.

Hushen reported that the White House had tabulated 16,000 telegrams on the Nixon pardon by late Tuesday morning and found them running 6-1 in opposition to Ford's grant of federal immunity to the resigned president.

However, Hushen said telephone reaction had "changed around rather significantly" and, through Monday, supported Ford's decision 5,700 to 3,900.

Council to organize new citizen group

By Robert Mau
Student Writer

After hearing several viewpoints from representatives of various interest groups, the Carbondale City Council has begun to determine the nature of citizen participation in the allocation of $8.1 million of federal funds.

In Tuesday night's special meeting, the council agreed that a new citizens' advisory group be formed to help recognize the major needs of the funds.

Councilman Hans Fischer suggested that the new group have a maximum of 20 members.

Councilwoman Helen Westburg said the group should have "the broadest possible community support." She added that the plan "insure citizen participation from the grassroots level."

In Monday night's formal meeting, the council delayed action on the proposed bicycle ordinance because of differences between university and city policies.

of all bicycles, conflicted with the present SIU ordinance, which requires registration of all bicycles only once.

According to the proposed city ordinance, the city would not recognize the legal access on city streets by bicycles registered by the university, according to John Huffman, SIU legal counsel.

City Manager Carrol Fry recommended that the city accept university registered bicycles within the ordinance. Huffman supported Fry's recommendation.

City Attorney John Womick said "a problem of equal protection" could arise if the city adopted this policy.

Mayor Neal Eckert recommended that only unregistered bikes be registered until "some agreement on periodic registration" be reached with SIU.

"The council apparently is going along, in effect, with what the university has done," Fry said Tuesday morning.

"It looks to me," Fry said, "like it is the first step toward the abolition of the ordinance."

The proposed city ordinance, which would have required annual registration

Farm-to-market

WASHINGTON (AP)—One mile of country road in every five and one bridge in every six are rated "critically deficient" by the Federal Highway Administration, says Donald S. Knight, executive director of the Road Information Program.

Farmers must truck their goods to market over 600,000 miles of rough, rutted roads and across 80,000 aging, narrow bridges, Knight says. Neglect of country roads and bridges inflates food prices at the consumer level, he points out.

U of I expert says Ford violated powers

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—A University of Illinois constitutional expert says President Ford has "a complete absence of constitutional power" to pardon Richard Nixon.

Prof. Rubin Cohn, a law professor, a framer of the judiciary article of the state's constitution and a legal scholar, said Tuesday that Ford's pardon violates Article 2, Section 2, Clause 1 of the U.S. Constitution.

The pertinent passage from the article, which defines presidential powers, reads: "...and he shall have power to grant reprieves and pardons for offenses against the United States, except in cases of impeachment."

Cohn said, "We are dealing with an impeachment that is still pending." Articles of impeachment still pend before the House and can be called to the floor.

"It is simply a question if the president has any power while the impeachment process is continuing, to issue any pardon," Cohn said.

"Now my theory is, and I think it is a reasonable theory, that the impeachment process is really an ongoing process in this case. It has not been concluded," he said.

Impeachment is not a dead issue with Nixon's resignation, Cohn holds, because impeachment means not only removal from office but a "continued noneligibility to hold public office thereafter."

"They could continue the impeachment process now," he said. "The power of the president to pardon becomes questionable if the impeachment process is ongoing."

Cohn's theory could be tested only by the Supreme Court. To get it before the court, he said, the Watergate grand jury would have to indict Nixon despite the pardon. Nixon's attorney would have to interpose a pardon as an absolute defense.

"Then the prosecutor," Cohn said, "would challenge the constitutionality of the pardon in the court."

Cohn said he has not spoken to Leon Jaworski about his theory but is considering raising the issue more formally in public.

Nixon pardon makes common man the loser

By Gary Delsohn
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

However fragile the American system of justice has become, it was dealt a devastating blow Sunday by President Ford's decision to grant former President Nixon, a "full, free and absolute pardon for all offenses committed against the United States."

President Ford, the man nobody voted in as President or Vice President, the man Nixon handed his Presidency over to, said, in effect, Richard Nixon is getting a pass. I am ignoring the American system of justice and letting him go free. Richard Nixon does not have to pay for his "offenses" as every other American must.

That paraphrase of Ford's statement is exaggerated but fairly accurate. The biggest mistake about it is the part about every other American having to pay for his crimes. Only those without pull, political know-how, or money have to pay for their crimes. The ones less powerful than Richard Nixon and Spiro Agnew, you and I, more are pawns of the system. The real culprits, of whom Nixon rules supreme, go down too easy. "Richard Nixon and his loved ones have suffered enough," Ford said, failing to realize America has suffered more than enough. We have been witness to one of the most tragic blows ever dealt upon the system of democracy and justice. The phrase "equal justice under law" has been reduced to empty rhetoric.

President Ford said a Nixon trial would take a long time. No doubt, it would. He also said Nixon would very likely be deprived of his due process rights. That too, could be. And, he said, this would not be fair or good for the former president or the nation. In this leap over the bounds of justice President Ford let his conscience (he said he felt it in his conscience) take the place of the constitution and law. His conscience decided what should become of Richard Nixon—the Richard Nixon that Aug. 5 told the nation he had lied to the press, investigators and his family for two years.

Ford smoothed some sweet icing on Nixon's cake, granting him ownership of all the tapes and documents of his administration. The federal government has complete access to the tapes for five years, after which time Nixon can destroy them. They will be his alone, maybe to serve as the foundation for a million dollar book or some other commercial goldmine.

Anyway, as President Ford said, "The buck stops here." He was right, but the tremors of this decision, I am afraid, will shake the nation for a very long time. What about the other Watergate men, especially the ones who are already serving prison sentences? How can Ford not grant some degree of amnesty to the big Nixon men yet to stand trial? These are questions President Ford failed to answer.

The Watergate mess, beside the obvious damage it has done to our political and judicial systems, has not raised politicians' credibility with the people. In fact, it has illustrated clearly that, although not all politicians are crooks as many claim, they are merely, as CBS newsmen Dan Rather said, "Men of no principles, all deals." President Gerald Ford made a deal with Richard Nixon, the exact time of which would be another interesting consideration, and in the process has taken a tremendous burden upon himself. It is left to history for final judgment, and each individual American can reach his own conclusions.

Replies to 'The irony of history will judge Nixon'

To the Daily Egyptian:

I don't think the nation as a whole was out for blood in the Watergate hearings; but instead, they wanted to find out the truth about it. What actually did occur? Were Nixon and the others involved guilty of the accusations leveled against them? It wasn't a vindictive mass of dry-eyed, lip smacking, pompous fools, with blood red-I told you so's in mind; instead, it was a confused mass of people wanting to know who they could trust and believe.

In their time of anxiety and confusion they did what seemed to be the only right thing to do: they turned to our righteous judicial system, the system that supposedly treats all men as equals, and they left the decision up to them.

For awhile things seemed to be working out fine, people involved in Watergate were all being dealt with by the laws of our land, no one seemed to be above the laws of the land. It was a long and tedious road to follow, but for the first time people were able to see our constitution at work; it truly seemed to be treating all men equally under the law. It wasn't, as many had thought, a blemish in the history of our nation, instead it was a shining example that our form of democratic government does work.

Well, as many of us have heard, too many times before, "all good things must come to an end." and so it went with our system of justice. On September 8, 1974, President Ford granted Richard Nixon complete and unconditional amnesty for any Watergate related crimes he may have committed. It now seems that everything our country has strived for in the past two centuries was completely meaningless; for with this move Ford truly showed the American people, that although justice may be blind, the scale of justice is apparently there to be swayed by the power and wealth of the man being judged.

Our dream of equality and justice for all now seems to be only a passing thought in the minds of many Americans; for one cannot hope to maintain this goal with a double standard of justice.

A comment on the editorial by Bob Springer on the irony and Nixon.

Although there are many criminal acts that a citizen can perform against the "Laws of the Land," three major categories: Vietnam dodgers, marijuana smokers, and corrupt politicians are in the eyes of John Doe Public.

History can show, that in wars declared by Congress, many of eligible males went to the induction line, instead of Canada, to fight for their country. Many citizens back then, saw the probable end of the English language and the American way of life—such were the enemies back then. Just recently, circa 1900's, marijuana was declared unlawful to possess or to use in the U.S.A. History shows that many people lived in homes, back then, while smoking pot. With the relatively recent law, now many people live behind bars for "tokens against the Empire."

And now we come to the politician. History also shows many one-time politicians are behind bars for being caught doing some illegal act, though whatever it was, a trifle offense or a magnanimous leech of public funds. They are behind bars.

Do you think cell-block 88 in Joliet has "forgotten" the entire affair of their personal endeavors into crime? Do you think that the many cold-war veterans now in wheelchairs and braces will forget situations they were once in? And what do you think Mom and Dad are doing to let "Kathy and Bobby" forget the marijuana bust they were in?

If history judges men, then for all the years of marijuana smoking and evading morgue-bound cold wars the honest people of the United States want to see "justice done" to Nixon as it was done to them. No man is above the law. Amnesty for one and all should have been President Ford's call.

The Chicago Democratic Convention in 1968 has a lot of "I told you so's" about the industrial-military complex. Ann Landers has many, many Moms and Dads telling about draft dodging and marijuana smoking kids. Now you want us to just close our eyes and forget the Watergate affair. Nixon and his crimes against the people of the United States, that second offender? For the last 200 years America has been "following the book" in keeping America clean!

Letters to the newspapers don't mean shit, only the ones that do are to your state and national congressmen. Spend 30 cents and put Nixon in jail.

No need to move stables

To the Daily Egyptian:

It was with great regret that I read of the Senate's resolution to "demonstrate community and University interest" in re-opening Saluki Stables. My feelings on the issue relate to the following observations:

1. As an individual who has utilized Saluki Stables in the past I believe I have witnessed animals being consistently mistreated. This mistreatment existed not only on the part of the staff and riders but also simply from the inadequate provisions of the Stables themselves. Horses are rented out to and ridden by as many as eight different people daily, most of them people who have little knowledge of horses and whose main interest is cheap thrills at the expense of the horse. This situation is not unique to Saluki Stables but something typical to most public riding stables and the University bureaucratic system of management does not help any.

2. Saluki Stables has never been in fact a University recreational facility operated for the use of students, although it has been called that quite a bit lately. The major users of Saluki Stables for the past few years have been high school and junior high school students and area horse enthusiasts. Students have received only a minimal discount on renting horses and no discount at all on the other Stable services including boarding horses and riding instruction. I believe the University's and the Student Senate's first concern should be for the student's interest and secondly for providing community service and "keep the kids off the streets" programs.

I commend Mr. Lange for the fervor and tenacity with which he has pursued this issue and would ask that he redirect his energies toward some other recreational outlet which is more popular with the student body and does not demand the abuse of animals.

The speaker—Dr. Donald Deppe, representative from the Bureau of Prisons

The theme topic given on this eventful day where twelve prisoners received degrees from colleges and universities, also has application for others going through the learning process.

As the new school year begins, it is appropriate to establish a reason for attending an institution of higher learning. The speaker Deppe outlined three areas which can impede the process of growth.

Students who refuse to give up their fixed attitudes can imprison themselves into complacency. Attitudes one has upon entering a new classroom or college determine how much growth will take place. For example, if a student decides the professor is a liberal, conservative, racist, or a militant these attitudes will help shape his learning process. There is no doubt that there might be professors who are conservative etc., but the question is do the labels inhibit learning? Attaching labels to teachers and fellow students so often prevents a positive learning experience. What often happens is that the label is attached and the student dismisses any new ideas which might increase his awareness.

A second area which Deppe used and that has application for other students is called escape. Obviously, this has an ironic meaning for prisoners but it also has an ironic twist for university students. Escape, defined as flight from self-knowledge, inhibits growth. The escape mechanism takes many forms. Students who do not examine themselves apart from whatever category they have acquired by society impede expanding their own horizons. The classification of young white middle class has little to do with who one is.

The last related area which can impede one's achieving full potential is the lack of bravery. Deppe called it "having the courage to fail." There are probably quite a number of students on campus who are afraid to become involved in classroom discussion because their ideas may be laughed at by other students. Classroom discussion provides a learning tool for all students and those who refuse to participate miss a chance to hear their ideas from another angle. Of course, there is a risk involved, the ideas may not be revered but the value of hearing several viewpoints far outweighs the treasured misinformation.

Bravery to provide information to fellow students and others is avoiding cowardice. There are students who have a desire to know about different life styles, for example, and will appreciate the new information.

Achieving full potential can be accomplished through concerted effort on the part of students. Those who are willing to overcome fixed attitudes about other individuals and other concepts, those who are willing to gain self-knowledge and awareness, and those who have the courage to fail can truly achieve full potential.

The SIU campus as contrasted with the learning environment at Marion Federal Prison has no real barriers to the achievement of full potential. The only real barriers lie within us.

The crazy spaceship

By Arthur Hoppe

Help, somebody! I'm trapped aboard this crazy spaceship.

Nobody seems to know where it's been, where it is, how it got here, or where it's going.

There's no captain aboard. Nobody's in charge. Some of the nuttiest passengers would like to be. They're the ones with the bombs. And there's no way to get off.

Luckily, I'm in First Class. Most of the others are in Tourist. They've really got it bad back there. Some of them are starving. That's because this crazy spaceship is getting really overcrowded. So there isn't enough food to go around any more.

We keep telling them back in Tourist to stop having so many kids. What's the good of them having kids if they're all starving? But they don't listen. Nobody listens. Nobody does anything. And there's no way to get off.

Actually, things aren't too bad here in First Class yet. The air's getting harder to breathe. And the water's beginning to taste funny. But we've got plenty to eat. Of course, we feel a little guilty eating so well when those poor ... But we don't talk much about that.

We're running out of fuel, though. It lights our lights, warms our cabins, powers our machines and runs our television sets.

The fuel was put aboard before the first passenger. It's almost gone. Us guys in First Class are using up twice as much as all those people in Tourist. But we hope somebody will find us some new fuel somewhere. Nobody has yet.

I'll miss television.

But what scares me most are these nuts with bombs. We've got a half dozen of them in First Class. A guy in Tourist even made one. He's starving and he makes a bomb! "For prestige," he says. How crazy can you get?

Each of these nuts in First Class says he's got to have his bomb because these five other guys have got their bombs. "They can't blow me up," each says with kind of a mad gleam in his eye, "because, if they do, I'll blow them up!" And the spaceship along with them.

Yet each wants the other passengers to think he's the sanest and the right guy to run the spaceship. Talk about fruitcakes!

But does anybody try to take the bombs away from these nuts? Nobody does anything. Nobody ever does anything on this crazy spaceship. And there's no way to get off.

Everybody knows what we should do. Us guys in First Class should ration our food, have fewer kids, turn off our machines that are eating up our fuel and mucking up our air, and somehow get those crazies to throw away their bombs.

Everybody agrees to that. Trouble is, nobody wants to give up all the good things he's got unless everybody does. So nobody does. Nobody ever does anything. I guess it's because we've got it so good that we're going to get it so bad.

Sometimes I think everybody aboard this crazy spaceship is crazy. How come nobody will face up to reality? After all, this crazy spaceship is the only crazy spaceship we've got. We're all trapped.

For there's absolutely no way on earth to get off. (Copyright Chronicle Publishing Co. 1974)

No self-determinism in Chile

To the Daily Egyptian:

It is indeed a shame that the U.S. secretly and illegally authorized an expenditure of 8 million hard earned tax dollars for purposes of overthrowing the legal government of then President Allende of Chile. Before this revelation, American people had been told that the U.S. government played no part in the coup d'etat. Henry Kissinger on several occasions has denied any American involvement and so have his deputies and other high government officials under sworn testimonies. But, we are told today the covert operation was chaired by the secretary of state. Once again the Congress has been misled and the Americans deceived.

It is often said the U.S. supports the concept of "self-determination," but the invasion of Chile by the C.I.A. and eventual overthrow of that country's elected government, is in contrast to this policy. A policy of subversion against any foreign government is irrational and should not be maintained. The whole idea seems to be a boomerang.

In defense of women

Ms. Loewy's editorial of 9-4 on "Women's Lib", while difficult to respond to because of its broad (no pun intended) generalizations and misconceptions, nonetheless requires a response.

Her initial question "what does women's liberation want to be liberated from?" is reminiscent of Freud's "what do women want?" As an ardent feminist I can only speak for myself and answer—women want what men already have: access and opportunity to pursue, for the most part, whatever lifestyle they choose. This means that certain traditions have to be challenged, especially in the area of employment and reproduction. But socially, where etiquette is concerned, it's still "to each his or her won." If a woman chooses to light her own cigarette or that of someone else, to open her own door or open it for another, to stand on a bus or offer her seat to someone, so should she. However, traditional social customs take a back seat to the more pressing needs of women. That is not to say they should be discarded, but rather extended to both sexes. It's really a matter of preference and personal taste.

As for her statement on the way we women dress (excluding or including herself I wonder?), this sounds suspiciously like the argument that "women who dress like that deserve or at least are asking to be raped." Need more be said?

Being treated equally does not mean being treated the same. And one final thought: feminism and femininity are not mutually exclusive

Bayh hits pardon, credibility hurt

CHICAGO (AP)—Indiana Sen. Birch Bayh said Tuesday that granting of pardons by President Ford to all persons connected with Watergate would destroy the American tradition of equal justice for everyone and Ford's credibility.

"I think this whole pardoning business has been handled in a very bad way," Bayh said. "This... cannot be done without considering the impact on the country and... on the system of justice. I hate to see the President destroy 200 years of history and a tradition of equal justice for all."

Bayh said that any additional pardons on the heels of his pardon on Sunday for former President Richard Nixon would destroy Ford's own credibility, which he said already seems damaged.

He cited Ford's congressional testimony last year that he would not pardon President Nixon, and a late-August statement that he would not grant a pardon before the normal judicial process was followed.

Bayh said he was deeply concerned about the Nixon pardon creating a double standard of justice—"one for the poor and another for the not-so-poor"—which will only increase cynicism throughout the country.

"The people of this country are demanding political leaders who will speak with one voice," Bayh said.

Bayh was in Chicago to address a convention of the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine workers.

Calipre puppet show to use children in act

Children will get into the act of the puppet show, "Animal Crackers" this Saturday.

Unlike most puppet shows, the children do not sit and watch "Animal Crackers." They take part in the performance. The show uses creative dramatics, oral interpretation and large and small hand puppets to get the children involved.

Bruce Potts is the creator and sole puppeteer of the children's show to be presented in the Calipre Stage. Potts will share the bill with such fantasy friends as "Gweedle", Elmer the Crow, Gumdrop and Peanut Butter, and a blue elephant.

Potts began giving puppet shows while in the navy stationed at San Diego. For two years he gave shows for the San Diego Public Library System. As a result he became a complimentary member of the San Diego Puppet Guild.

When Potts was transferred to Hawaii, he gave puppet shows at the Hawaii School for the Deaf and Blind and the Easter Seal Camp for Crippled Children. "I found out at the Easter Seal Camp that many of the children that laughed and smiled had never reacted to anything before," Potts said.

Potts also performed at elementary schools on the island of Oahu for audiences ranging from 300 to 600 children.

"Animal Crackers" will be presented at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. General admission is 25 cents. For reservations call 453-2291 between 1 p.m. and 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

IBHE hearing set at SIU Sept. 16

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Three public hearings will be held later this month to allow citizens to express their views on the direction higher education should take, the Illinois Board of Higher Education announced Tuesday.

The meetings will be Sept. 16 at SIU's Student Center; Sept. 18 at the University Union of Illinois State University in Normal; and Sept. 20 at the Circle Center campus of the University of Illinois in Chicago.

The hearings will start at 10 a.m. each day and persons with views on a variety of educational matters, from enrollment of women and minorities in colleges and junior colleges to higher education governance, scholarship and loan programs and adult education, have been encouraged to participate.

First meeting set for GSC

Goals and objectives of the Graduate Student Council (GSC) for the coming year will be discussed at the council's first fall semester meeting Thursday, according to Kathy Jones, president.

The meeting will be held at 8:30 p.m. in the Mississippi Room of the Student Center.

Jones said the objectives include "reaching out to more graduate students" and having more student involvement in the council. She said, "We're trying to get away from a student government of only a few. We want more involved."

The results of orientation held two weeks ago and a general restructuring of the organization also will be discussed Jones said.

Vocational counselors needed to fill positions

In recent weeks the number of available jobs in vocational counseling of the handicapped exploded, says John Grenfell, professor of rehabilitation.

Grenfell said about 30 jobs are open at sheltered workshops in Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky and Missouri. Positions available include vocational evaluators for the physically handicapped, mentally ill and mentally retarded, vocational placement directors and community coordinators. The first two positions require a master's degree and a bachelor's degree is required for the latter position.

The workshops provide job training for the physically and mentally handicapped in an effort to provide sellable skills in a competitive labor market, Grenfell said.

The majority of the clientele are retarded adults who participate as students rather than as patients. The individuals are funded by the Department of Vocational Rehabilitation, the Department of Mental Health and sometimes by Security. The workshops are supported by local governments.

Grenfell said the opening of some new workshops apparently has created a demand in other places.

FREE ADMISSION

We invited a few friends for dinner and they helped clean up the Genesee River.

With the aid of a few thousand pounds of microorganisms, we're helping to solve the water pollution problem in Rochester. Maybe the solution can help others.

What we did was to combine two processes in a way that gives us one of the most efficient water-purifying systems private industry has ever developed.

One process is called "activated sludge," developed by man to accelerate nature's microorganism adsorption. What this means is that for the majority of wastes man can produce, there is an organism waiting somewhere that will happily assimilate it. And thrive on it.

The breakthrough came when Kodak scientists found a way to combine the activated sludge process with a trickling filter process and optimized the combination.

We tested our system in a pilot plant for five years.

At Kodak, we were working on environmental improvement long before it made headlines. And the pilot project worked so well, we built a ten-million-dollar plant that can purify 36-million gallons of water a day.

Governor Rockefeller called this "the biggest voluntary project undertaken by private industry in support of New York State's pure-water program."

Why did we do it? Partly because we're in business to make a profit and clean water is vital to our business. But in furthering our own needs, we have helped further society's. And our business depends on society.

We hope our efforts to cope with water pollution will inspire others to do the same. And, we'd be happy to share our water-purifying information with them. We all need clean water. So we all have to work together.

New handbook tells students how to survive in the 'system'

The Student Affairs Office is distributing a student handbook for the first time since 1970.

Bruce Swinburne, dean of student affairs, said the handbook was compiled to help acquaint students with the "little things you must know to survive the system."

Swinburne said the handbooks are being distributed to residence halls, offices on campus, the Student Center, and on the third floor, Anthony Hall.

Features of the handbook include reports on university departments and activities.

Friends of library need donations for book sale

Donations of books, magazines or records are needed for the third annual Friends of Morris Library Book Sale, to be held Oct. 11.

The sale will be held in Ballroom D of the Student Center and will include novels, biographies, histories, encyclopedias, foreign language books, philosophy books and textbooks.

Besides a wide range of hard and paperbacked books, a variety of magazines and records will be offered. This year's book sale also offers children's books and SIU Press Books.

"Our objective is to get it in the hands of every new student, then returning students," Swinburne said.

Geri Newman and Tom Kachel, instructors of design, designed the handbook with the help of teaching assistants Bob Barber and Dave Waugh.

"Our original goal was to be as helpful to new and returning students as possible," Kachel said.

"We wanted to make students aware of academic areas, and what's in southern Illinois," he added.

According to Newman, questions in the margins were posed by classes and sent to the area they pertain to for the answers. Larry Juhlin, a graduate student in Higher Education, rewrote the information to make it brighter, sent it back to the area for feedback and rewrote it again, she said.

"We tried to make it as interesting as we could," Kachel said.

For instance, the handbook's first page tells about Robert A. Allyn, SIU's first president, and misspells his name. The mistake is circled and corrected in the margin.

Swinburne said the pocket in the back of the handbook is for students to keep things such as a list of all the buildings on campus. He said the list and maps of the university would be distributed soon.

Jackson County voter drive to help students register

By Gary Delsohn
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

"If you're serious about change, register to vote."

That's the motto of the Student Voter Registration Project, and it is trying to make it easy for students to register to vote.

The student registration effort, along with the Jackson County Clerk's drive, plan to register many new voters for the November elections.

Bill Wesley, coordinator for the student registration drive, said "We're trying to make it as easy and convenient as possible for students to register to vote."

The Jackson County Clerk is also trying to make it easy for people in the precincts to register. Clerk Robert B. Harrell said he is in the process of appointing "registration deputies" for each of Jackson County's 61 precincts. There will be a democratic and republican deputy in each precinct, he said.

The registrars will be accessible to potential voters and have the authority to register anyone meeting the qualifications. "Each deputy will decide how he wants to go about it," Harrell said.

To register one must be a U.S. citizen, 18-years-old before the election (Nov.5) and a resident of Illinois for six months in the precinct one wishes to vote in. Harrell said there is going to be a campus drive sponsored by The League of Women Voters and student government Sept. 23-28. Students can register at that time in the activity rooms on the third floor of the Student Center. Normally they would have to go to the County Courthouse in Murphysboro, student coordinator, Wesley said.

Wesley also said there will be a drive conducted in the dorms Sept. 30-Oct. 4 and students living there can register without leaving.

Wesley said last year there were 18,000 students at SIU-C and 99.5 per cent were eligible to vote. "We are going to try and get as many registered as possible and show that students can have a lot to say about county elections," Wesley explained.

Wesley said students from out of town can register for absentee ballot or for Jackson County, which would automatically cancel the student's home registration.

Duke Koch a coordinator for the student effort, said it is practical for students to register where they are spending most of their time. A Chicagoan, going to school in Carbondale, would be better off to register for Jackson County voting privileges since "students are going to be effected more by what happens here than in some place they live for only a few months."

Wesley said the project is strictly non-partisan, interested only in getting voters registered. Volunteers are needed and should call 549-3928.

Ragtime revisited

The "St. Louis Ragtimers," a three piece ragtime and rhythms band, will open the Convocation series with a jazz concert at 8:00 p.m. Wednesday. The trio features Don Franz on the tuba, Trebor Jay Tichenor at the piano and Al Stricker, the band's vocalist and banjo player. Ragtime music has experienced a revival in popularity since the release of the film, "The Sting."

'Ragtimers' jazz band opens Convo program

By Deborah Singer
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

That good ol' ragtime rhythm has taken this country by storm.

SIU will become part of the action at 8 p.m. Wednesday, when the "St. Louis Ragtimers" come to roost in Shryock Auditorium.

Whether it is nostalgia or classical music that turns students on, ragtime music meets the demands. With roots that can be traced back to the late 19th century to Scott Joplin, ragtime is totally American in nature.

Described as a "musical language in which you cannot say a mean or sarcastic thing," ragtime precedes blues and jazz as an American art form. Joplin's music is considered classical, and some of his work is compared with short pieces by the masters — Chopin, Schubert, Brahms and Mozart.

Neglected until recently, ragtime enjoys a revival partially due to the success of the film, "The Sting." At a recent ragtime festival, the first of its kind, all of the top names in the field turned out. Among the names mentioned were those of SIU graduate student Jann Douglas and the "St. Louis Ragtimers."

An agile piano player is needed to play ragtime. He must contrast complex right-hand melodies with an accented, steady bass played by the left hand. "Professor," Trebor Jay Tichenor, pianist with the "St. Louis Ragtimers," fills the bill. His style reportedly bears evidence of the influence of Jelly Roll Morton and Scott Joplin.

BAKERY

If you've ever had to eat cold toast, cheer up! Help is on the way. One of the newest kitchen products on the market is a toaster with a push-button control to keep your toast "warm as toast" indefinitely, at any degree of toastiness you desire.

All of which is a pretty good reminder that food preparation is getting more convenient all the time. However, there is evidence that you girls don't want things too convenient! At least, that's the explanation given for the fact that frozen bread never really caught on too well, but frozen bread dough sales are increasing. With the dough and a little effort - let's face it, very little effort - you can "bake fresh bread" right there in your own kitchen.

Well, it wasn't always that simple. Pioneer housewives, for example, had to start from scratch, and bake their bread in makeshift ovens dug into hillsides.

Other early-day ovens were built out of doors - well, now, they weren't exactly built out of doors, they were built out of brick and adobe, but they were out of doors. They were dome shaped like little igloos. To bake bread, you had to build a fire inside of the oven, then take it out when the oven was good and hot, then take a long-handled shovel and slide the bread dough in where the fire had been - and then just hope it came out okay.

Later some genius got the idea of building the fire under the oven. Early commercial bakers used this kind of oven, and housewives would bring in their homemade dough to be baked. In rural areas in some parts of the world, this type of oven was still in use until very recently.

So you might call toast that stays warm a toast to progress. And you might say that Mack's is a lot like that new toaster. For no matter when you step inside, you'll be sure of getting a warm welcome!

World news roundup

Walker vetoes 'drunk' bill

SPRINGFIELD, ILL. (AP) - Gov. Daniel Walker sent legislation making drunkenness and alcoholism a community health problem instead of a crime back to the General Assembly Tuesday.

The legislation would have created a division of alcoholism within the Department of Mental Health and Developmental Disabilities and would have prohibited local ordinances or rules making drunkenness a crime or a punishable civil offense.

Walker said he approved of the concept of the bill but vetoed it because the General Assembly failed to appropriate funds for detoxification programs to be established under the new program.

Albert speaks out

WASHINGTON (AP) - The pardoning of Watergate figures beyond former President Richard M. Nixon could plunge President Ford into deeper trouble with Congress, House Speaker Carl Albert said Tuesday.

"I think it would be viewed as an abuse of presidential power," said Albert after a White House spokesman announced that Ford was studying the possibility of granting other pardons.

"Where would he stop?" said Albert in an interview. "Would it mean that all politicians in trouble would be pardoned?"

Amtrak to spend millions

WASHINGTON (AP) - Amtrak plans to spend $565 million improving passenger train routes that serve Chicago and downstate Illinois.

The national rail passenger service says it hopes to spend 260 million on three routes that serve

Chicago and downstate points exclusively.

It also plans $305 million worth of improvements for routes between Chicago and out-of-state cities which include track in Illinois.

The Chicago-Carbondale Amtrak hopes to spend $85 million on line so trains can travel at 90 m.p.h.

Current speed on the line averages 58 m.p.h.

The expenditures were part of a five-year national plan sent to Congress and the Department of Transportation on Monday.

Thieu cracks down

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) - President Nguyen Van Thieu has stripped two brigadier generals of their rank in a crackdown on corruption, military sources said Tuesday.

The two men are Le Van Tu and Tran Quoc Lich, against whom the government was investigating charges of mismanagement, the sources said.

Conservatives beat drums

LONDON (AP) - Edward Heath's opposition Conservative party beat the drums of nationalism Tuesday as it launched an election program "putting Britain first" in home and world affairs.

The Conservatives revealed their campaign strategy as the country awaited a decision from Prime Minister Harold Wilson on whether he will call the national elections, in an attempt to gain a stronger mandate for his minority Labor government, on Oct. 3 or 10.

The 32-page glossy campaign document, embossed with part of a Union Jack, stressed the nation's interests should be paramount.

It said Britain's mixed economy should be preserved but the Tories would dump Labor plans for wholesale state control of key industries including oil. It proposed public spending be cut back and wages and prices be subjected to tight control by law if necessary.

Utilities argue rate hikes

WASHINGTON (AP) - Nearly 100 state public utility commissioners will meet in Washington Wednesday to hear federal officials argue for higher rates for electrical utilities.

The outcome of the meeting and others scheduled in the near future, may be higher electric bills to the consumer.

There was not a general announcement of the meeting until after several consumer groups alleged it was being held in secrecy.

New scale measures patient perceptions

By Dave Wicorek
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

After more than two years of research, an SIU School of Medicine research team has come up with the "Patient Satisfaction Scale," a scale that can measure patient perceptions of medical care services.

According to the research team of John E. Ware Jr., Mary Kay Snyder and Russell Wright, the scale will ultimately help in assessing the needs of the people in relation to existing medical services and help in the planning of medical services in the future.

He said when the research began in July of '72 the first objective was to devise a scale for measuring patient perceptions of medical care services.

"The scale we have worked out will tell us if methods used by doctors need improving, if a doctor is accessible to the people in a certain area, if the patients can afford a certain doctor, if people are aware of the medical services available to them and if services are satisfactory," said Ware.

The Patients Satisfaction Scale (PSS), will be published this winter according to Ware. He said the PSS will be published along with a manual explaining how to use the scale and interpret the material.

"We don't want to publish the PSS any earlier because we don't want the public using the information prematurely. We are going to make certain all the material proven."

In order to gather the material for the scale, Ware said, self-administered questionnaires were sent out. When all the questionnaires were returned, the information was analyzed by a computer and the scale drawn up.

The research the SIU team is conducting is confined to central and southern Illinois, East St. Louis, Los Angeles and Madison, Wis. Ware said the long term goal of the research is to study patient perceptions on a national scale. He said they want to get a bigger sampling of America.

The whole project should be completed in three to five years, he added.

Currently, the team is working on its third grant from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW). HEW granted the School of Medicine $150,000 on July 1, 1974 for use in studying patient perceptions.

According to Ware, there were two other grants before the one this year.

"On July 1, 1972 we were granted $76,800 to get the research underway. Then one year later we were granted another $75,000 and the grant this past July brought the total to $302,000."

The total amount that was granted is also for the study of patient perceived health status, perceived value of health, perceived quality of care and perceived efficacy of care, according to Ware. Measuring scales are to be developed for these also he said.

Ware said that SIU is not the only institution conducting research. He said originally HEW saw a need for such a project and they were looking for people to do the research. Ware said they were among several institutions to cooperate.

Locally, Ware said the PSS could be very useful here at SIU.

"The scale could measure such things as the need for medical facilities in different areas of the campus or even attitudes toward student health insurance," said Ware. The data we have gathered is available to anyone who wishes to use it. It could be very useful for future planning concerning medical services or for determining the efficiency of present services."

Traffic deaths show decline

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Fewer people died in traffic accidents on Illinois highways last month than in August 1973, state officials reported Tuesday.

August fatalities totaled 183 compared with 222 last year, a decline of 18 per cent, the Department of Transportation and Illinois State Police said.

During the first eight months of 1974, there have been 1,215 traffic deaths compared with 1,553 for the same period in 1973, a 22 per cent decrease, officials said.

The decrease in fatalities this year has been attributed in part to the lower 55 mile-per-hour speed limit, which went into effect in Illinois in March.

Big loan company beginning to dissuade consumer loans

CHICAGO (AP)—Household Finance Corp., which traditionally counseled "Never Borrow Money Needlessly," is beginning to tell more and more prospective customers they're better off not borrowing at all.

HFC says its rate of approving new customers is off by 20 per cent and there are signs this is the trend throughout the $44 billion-a-year consumer loan industry.

This doesn't spell disaster for the loan companies, but it could make it a lot tougher on lower middle income families, who are particularly prone to depend on consumer loans, to get through economic tight spots.

While officials of HFC, one of the largest firms in the industry, are quick to point out they have no official policy to constrain credit to new customers, the approval rate of loans to new customers has gone down from 37 to 30 per cent.

One of the reasons, says HFC vice chairman P.C. Nagel, is that "our standards, because of money costs, have tightened up a bit."

The problem lies in the interest rates finance companies have to pay for money they themselves loan out. The short term rates have risen to the point where the interest squeeze is felt in sharply lower first-half profits.

There are more than 1,000 big and small finance companies operating out of more than 20,000 offices around the nation. Consumers who need extra cash to meet emergency expenses or to consolidate debts are charged interest rates of up to 36 per cent.

That rate depends on the size of the loan and regulations which vary from state to state.

Most borrowers who go to finance companies have annual incomes under $9,000 and 80 per cent are under $12,000, industry statistics show.

Much of their business is with high-risk customers. Delinquent loans are routinely considered of their overhead.

If a person can't get a loan through a finance company, he probably can't get a commercial loan through any legitimate means, said Robert Gibson, head of the nonprofit National Foundation for Consumer Credit in Washington.

When the finance companies paid 7 per cent for the money they loaned out, they made a very good buck.

HFC, one of the industry's leaders, made more than $64 million last year on its finance operations. First-half profits this year were down by 12 per cent.

"Obviously, the industry is hurting very badly," said Carl Hawver, executive vice president of the National Consumer Finance Association—the industry's trade organization.

He said if interest rates stay high for an extended time, loans will be cut back until states allow them to jack up the interest rates on consumer loans.

Gibson said most loan companies have already begun to cut back and he is worried about the possible social implications.

HFC Chairman G.F. Ellis says, for example, that unlike last year, loans might be denied to a family that had depended on two incomes where one was lost because of unemployment.

Nagel says persons with low seniority in the automotive and related industries are more likely to be rejected this year because of possible layoffs.

"Maybe after a discussion we'll decide the smart thing today is for the particular customer not to borrow. We don't want to make the loan unless the loan will be repaid," says Ellis.

Another example of tighter credit is given by Gibson, who says his agency offers financial counsel to about 100,000 families out of 162 offices around the country.

"Take the case, let's say, of a skilled worker who moves from one state to another. He's not known locally and may not currently be on the payroll. He may be trying to get a credit rating in the community after establishing fairly good credit back home and needs some money to buy furniture and dishes or something."

"This is the kind of person a small loan company would be willing and want to help. Last year, such a person would have little trouble getting a loan. This year, he cannot," says Gibson.

Where does he go? Possibly to illegitimate sources of credit, says Gibson.

"One of our fears is that if a family is unable to obtain credit through a legitimate finance company that deals in high risk loans, their only alternative is to turn to a loan shark, where they put up an arm and a leg for security, or to some form of criminal activity," he says.

Hawver, the industry representative, also foresees a possible upsurge in illegal loan rackets.

A year ago, HFC was paying about 7½ per cent interest for short-term money. In March it was 8½ per cent. At its peak last week it was 11.9 per cent.

All loans gross HFC an average of 20 per cent, said Nagel. The company's overhead, less interest charges it pays, runs to about 10½ per cent. After including the cost of short-term money, many finance companies may be operating near the break-even point.

Three of eight runaway youths remain at large

GRAFTON, Ill. (AP) — Three of eight youths who ran away Monday night from the Pere Marquette Residential Center remained at large Tuesday.

Police said the eight, all juvenile delinquents committed by courts to the Department of Corrections facility, walked out of the fenceless camp about 9 p.m. Monday. By morning five were back in custody.

Police said the youths, aged 15 to 17, stole at least three vehicles to make good their escape and wrecked one. Another was recovered in Madison County. The third led officers on a high speed chase in Jersey and Green counties and eluded capture.

No one was hurt. One youth surrendered in Elash, another was caught in Grafton and three others were captured near Bethalto.

Brock breaks Wills' mark

BULLETIN—St. Louis speedster Lou Brock stole second base in the seventh inning of the Cardinals' game against the Philadelphia Phillies Tuesday night and set a major league record of 165 stolen bases for one season.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Indomitable Lou Brock stole second base in the opening inning of the St. Louis Cardinals' Philadelphia Phillies game Tuesday night and tied Maury Wills as baseball's alltime top base stealer with 104 for the season.

Brock's theft, applauded thunderously by the frenzied crowd at Busch Stadium, came against Philadelphia right-hander Dick Ruthven after the 35-year-old Cardinals' outfielder singled.

It was his 13th steal of the season in 15 games against the Phillies, the feat coming in the Cards' 142nd game of the season and Brock's 134th.

Ruthven, after yielding the hit to Brock, threw a called strike to the Cardinals' Ron Hunt and tried one pickoff throw to first base before Brock took off on the second pitch.

His chase to the bag easily beat a throw into the dirt by Philadelphia catcher Bob Boone, and Brock continued on to third as the ball bounced into center field.

When Wills set the major league record in 1962, his 104th steal came in the Los Angeles Dodgers' 165th game of the season, in the National League playoffs.

Water polo squad starts second year

The Salukis have gained entrance into a league—the water polo Salukis, that is.

The SIU team, entering only its second year of competition, has entered the Mid-West League, including such formidable opponents as Kentucky, Loyola, Michigan and Indiana.

"Since we are still in the formative and skill-development stages of a water polo program, our entry into the Mid-West League may be premature," admitted Coach Bob Steele. "However, we are only as good as the competition we face."

Last year, Steele guided the team through its first full schedule to a 5-4 record in his first year as coach. Two key members are gone from that squad, however, including the team's top scorer, Pat Sullivan, and top goalie, Randy Giefer, both All-Americans.

Battling for the two openings in the starting lineups are three newcomers and five returnees from last year.

Junior Paul Schultz of Riverside and freshman Jerry Pattenau of Hazelcrest will vie for the goalie job vacated by Giefer.

Sullivan's spot is up for grabs between sophomores Ken Merten and Steve Odenwald of Belleville, Ken Meyer of Park Ridge and Sergio Gonzales of Lima, Peru, and newcomers Jamie Powell, of Parkway, Mo., and Jorge Delgado of Ecuador.

Returning to fill the remaining five positions are Dave Swenson and Tony Wickham of Tacoma, Wash., Mike Salerno of Chicago St. Victor, Dennis Roberts of Mercersburg, Pa., and Rick Fox of Mount Prospect.

With Sullivan gone, the Salukis will have to turn to a more balanced attack, but Steele sees this as an advantage.

"This should spread out our opponents and force an open, fast-moving game," he said.

Considering the strong competition in the Mid-West League and the Hendricks College Tournament which the Salukis are entered in, Steele has limited his team's goals to winning the Illinois state championship.

"We will be able to swim with any team," commented Steele. "If we can pick up the ball and pass it, we'll win plenty of games."

The Salukis' 1974 schedule:
Sept. 14 Indiana, Western Illinois at Principia
Sept. 20 Intrasquad
Sept. 27 Southeast Missouri
Sept. 28 at Illinois
Oct. 4 Missouri Rolla
Oct. 5 at Kentucky, at Indiana
Oct. 11 at Southeast Missouri
Oct. 18 at Hendricks College
Tourney
Nov. 2 Illinois
Nov. 8 Mid-West Conference at George Williams

Saluki defense will be quick

By Bruce Shapin
Daily Egyptian Sports Editor

Second of a series

Quickness and size are two of the most important ingredients to have when putting together a winning defensive team. This year the Saluki defense lacks size, but they hope to overcome this drawback with their quickness.

"If your going to have a good defense you better have either size or quickness," said head coach Doug Weaver. "We're not going to be big, so we better be quick if we're going to be good."

During the last few days the SIU defense has welcomed back junior Primus Jones, who missed part of fall practice recovering from a toe operation. Jones will start at the right tackle position when the Salukis open the season Saturday night at New Mexico State.

"It's a compliment to Primus that he is able to play," said Weaver. "He has played very well in our practices, but he is not in shape yet. We do not know if he can go the whole game at New Mexico State." Backing up Jones will be Lamont Marks. Marks did not see action last year, but he has impressed Weaver and his staff this fall as a solid ball player.

Chris Miller, a 239 pound sophomore, will start at left tackle. Miller is the biggest man on the Salukis front line this year and has been working on his quickness this fall. James Roberts, a sophomore from Dethan, Ala., will make the trip to Las Cruces with the Salukis as the number two left tackle.

Seth Kirkpatrick, a starting linebacker a year ago, moves to the front line this year as the starting left end. Kirkpatrick was the second leading tackler on last year's team with 38 unassisted tackles and 27 assisted tackles. Mark Hailey will back up Kirkpatrick and right defensive end Matory Bailey.

Bailey had an outstanding spring and is considered a "hard worker" by the Saluki coaching staff. Bailey is a 200 pound sophomore from East St. Louis. The Saluki linebackers may be small but they're hitters according to Weaver. Valdreu Rodgers stands 5-9, 195 pounds, and has been called the hardest hitter on the team. He'll need to be a hard hitter as he patrols the middle.

"Rodgers is the type of player that turns games around with his hitting," said Weaver. Rodgers, because of his size, has some difficulty playing off the offensive blocks, but his speed has improved this weakness. Rodgers will be backed by freshmen Dan Brown.

The defensive signals will be called by starting left linebacker Jack Wise. Wise, a senior, had a fine spring to open the way for his starting assignment. Steve Angrum will be backing up Wise. Angrum is a talented sophomore who plans to figure highly in the Saluki defensive plans.

Tom Ippolito was named by Weaver as the starting right linebacker. Ippolito, considered a very "coachable individual" by Weaver, started several games last year at linebacker. Frank Biskner, one of 17 seniors on this year's squad, will travel as the second right linebacker.

The starting defensive secondary will be handled by Gary Powell, John Flowers, Aaron Byas and Joe Hosman. Powell, a senior from Glenview, was a starter on last year's 3-7-1 team. Powell has been assigned the left corner. He will be backed up John Rende. Rende will also share the punting chores with Ken Seaman.

Flowers, an aggressive ball player, will protect the left side against the long run and the pass. John Forsy will fill in for Flowers when called on by Weaver. Forsy started several games last year.

Byas will watch the right side. "Aaron is in super condition," said Weaver. "He's a great team man with an ideal attitude." Gary Mann, one of four freshmen on the varsity, will back up Byas. Joe Hosman, a walk-on who earned a spot on the varsity this spring, has earned the right.

Dwight Simmons, who saw considerable action last year, will be waiting on the sidelines Saturday night as Simmons' back-up.

This year the defense will handle the punting assignments, according to Weaver. "Our first team defense will handle most of the punting assignments," said Weaver.

When it comes to scoring the Salukis have field goal kicker Ken Seaman. Seaman is a constant threat in any game.

Seaman, a sophomore soccer specialist, is one of the best field goal and point after touchdown men in the country.

Last year Seaman ranked eleventh nationally in kick-scoring with 61 points. Seaman is a major threat when the Salukis threaten inside the opposing team's 40 yard line.

GREAT NECK, N.Y. (AP)—Coach George Paterno of the Kings Point, N.Y., football team says his funniest moment in football came when he sent a player into the game with one play. "My fingers got caught in his shoulder pads," says Paterno. "And as he ran on the field, he broke my finger."

Guess you could say, Paterno shouldered the blame.

WIDB will broadcast all road football games

By Ron Sutton
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

"Saluki football is on the air!" That sound will hit the local airwaves once again Saturday night on WIDB, 600 AM, 104 cable FM and Channel 13, Carbondale television.

The SIU station announced the decision Tuesday after finalizing plans to transmit the play-by-play from WJPF of Herrin via a telephone hookup.

"We feel that WIDB should be available to carry special events programming of local interest," said station general manager Ronna Davis, in announcing the decision.

Saturday's broadcast will begin at 8:05 p.m. with a pre-recorded program called "The Doug Weaver Pre-game Show," to be aired by WJPF. Gametime is approximately 8:30.

The campus station is the second—and probably final—station to pick up Saturday's opening game.

"We didn't ask for any assurances that we be the only station broadcasting them in the area," said Don Strom, station news director, "but, unless something happens Wednesday, I doubt that any station could get it together."

WIDB asked only for assurances that it would be the only campus station broadcasting the games. After it became apparent that WSU-FM would not pick up the Herrin broadcasts, WIDB checked out the situation.

"When the idea came up that WSU would not be having the broadcasts, we started checking around," said Strom. "The final negotiations took place yesterday and today with Ron Hines, sports director and station manager of WJPF."

WJPF will not charge the campus station for the broadcasts, leaving telephone line costs as the only budgetary problem for WIDB. Line charges vary with the use of the lines.

The station, supported by student activity fees for the most part, is planning only to broadcast the road games presently, but is still considering home games.

"We're still in negotiations on those," said Strom. "A lot depends on what happens after the first broadcast. Student opinion will prevail."

"We felt that the students could at least see the games at home," he continued, "but we felt they should have the opportunity to hear the road games, also."

Both WIDB and WJPF checked out the technicalities with their respective lawyers before the decision was made.

The campus station has not seriously checked into the question of joining the Saluki network, expected to be established in February or March.

"We will be in touch with the university at that time, seeing what possibilities are involved," said Strom.

Maroon defeats the White during first Rugby scrimmage

The Maroon team defeated the White 16-4 Saturday in the first intersquad scrimmage of the year for the SIU Rugby Club.

Kevin Conway, Mike Wade and Toby Peters scored goals for the Maroon, with Ed Willi making two point after attempts. Scott McClain got the lone score for the White, as the ruggers concluded their scrimmage, held on the Rugby field, south of the Arena.

Willi, who is the Rugby Club president, said "There were many shining individuals but team unity was still a problem. Saturday's scrimmage showed us how much work we really need to do, including defense against injuries." Willi referred to ruggers Bob Janura and Bill Conway who suffered shoulder injuries at Saturday's scrimmage.

The Saluki Team will hold another scrimmage at 2 p.m. Saturday, on the Rugby Field.

The scrimmages are being held in preparation for the Sept. 21 season opener at Ft. Campbell, Ky., an Army team. The SIU ruggers hope to avenge a 10-0 loss last spring to Ft. Campbell. The SIU Rugby Club's first home stand is Oct. 5, Parent's Day at SIU, against The Rambler Rugby Club of St. Louis.

Kayak club to meet Wednesday

The Southern Illinois Canoe and Kayak clubs will hold their first meeting of the year, Wednesday at 7 p.m., in activity room C, located on the third floor of the Student Center.

"All persons interested in canoeing or kayaking are welcome," said Al Justus, president of the club.

Justus said that slides will be shown of the clubs' trip to the Chattahoochee river in June. The Chattahoochee, located on the border between South Carolina and Georgia, is where the film "Deliverance" was shot.

The clubs' next trip will be organized at Wednesday's meeting.

Those interested in the club should attend the meeting or call Justus at 457-3351.
